N.C. Declaration of Rights

In the 2018 general election, voters approved amendments to Article 1, Section 37 that became effective August 31, 2019. The amended provisions enumerate rights afforded to victims of a crime or act of delinquency that is against or involving the person of the victim or is equivalent to a felony property crime. Under the amendment, a victim has the following rights:

- a) The right upon request to reasonable, accurate, and timely notice of court proceedings of the accused;
- b) The right upon request to be present at court proceedings of the accused;
- c) The right to be reasonably heard at any court proceeding involving the plea, conviction, adjudication, sentencing, or release of the accused;
- d) The right to receive restitution in a reasonably timely manner when ordered by the court;
- e) The right to be given information about the crime or act of delinquency, how the criminal justice system works, the rights of victims, and the availability of services for victims;
- f) The right upon request to receive information about the conviction, adjudication, or final disposition and sentence of the accused;
- g) The right upon request to receive notification of escape, release, proposed parole or pardon of the accused, or notice of a reprieve or commutation of the accused's sentence;
- h) The right to present the victim's views and concerns to the Governor or agency considering any action that could result in the release of the accused, prior to such action becoming effective; and
- i) The right to reasonably confer with the prosecution.
